IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

The House Passed the Armenian Joint Resolutions.

FREE SEEDS AND FREE SILVER.

They Occupied the Attention of the Senators—Secretary Morton Blamed for Disobedience of United States Laws.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The Armenian atrocities formed the subject for the opening prayer by the blind chaplain of the Senate, Mr. Milburn, this morning. As soon as the journal of Friday last was read, the credentials of Frank J. Cannon and Arthur Brown as Senators-elect from the new State of Utah were presented, read and placed on file, and the new Senators were then escorted to the Vice President's desk by Senators Dubois (Rep.) of Idaho and Burrows (Rep.) of Michigan, and took and subscribed the oath of office. They make the whole number of Senators now in office 89, there being still a vacancy from the State of Delaware.

Among the petitions presented and referred to committee was one from the wife of John L. Waller, held in prison by the French authorities in which she declares that such imprisonment is a "crime against justice," and that if her husband had been a British subject he would have been released long since. She prays Congress that "some suitable and immediate action be taken for his release."

Mr. Peffer (Pop.) of Kansas offered a resolution, which went over until to-morrow, instructing the interstate commerce commission to inform the Senate whether any additional legislation is necessary to protect the public interests in relation to railroad charges from points on the Missouri river east and west.

On motion of Mr. Mitchell (Rep.) Oregon the drawing took place between the two Utah Santors to determine their relative terms of service, and the Vice President announced that number one (the long term) had been drawn by Mr. Cannon, and number two (the short term) by Mr. Brown. Mr. Hansbrough (Rep.) of North Dakota then took the floor and proceeded with a speech relative to matters pertaining to the Department of Agriculture.

The Seed Distribution.

His subject was the failure of the Secretary of Agriculture to execute the law on the subject of seed distribution. The essence of the controversy, he said, lay in the proposition whether an executive officer of the government has the right to wilfully, deliberately, designedly and, as in this case, premeditately ignore a solemn statute of Congress. He believed it could be shown that the Secretary of Agriculture had disobeyed the mandate of the legislative branch of the government. The last Congress had made an appropriation of $130,000 to be used in the purchase and distribution of field and garden seeds, trees, cuttings, bulbs, etc., as required by law. The Secretary had first showed his deliberate purpose to evade that law when he asked the Attorney General for an interpretation of the statute with reference to the purchase of seeds. There was nothing at all in the opinion of the Attorney general which was inconsistent with the proper work of the department, so that the Secretary derived but little consolation from the opinion of the Attorney general. In accordance with that opinion, the Secretary had proceeded to advertise for bids, but in the Secretary's advertisement there were no specifications, no descriptive lists of the seeds desired: he simply advised the public that bids for seeds would be received. Each and all the bids were rejected on the ground that the list did not show the seeds were rare and uncommon. In the proceedings which took place a few days ago before the two Committees on Agriculture of the two houses, the Secretary of Agriculture had stated, when asked why he did not readvertise for new bids, that he did not believe he was obliged to do so. Mr. Hansbrough submitted that in ordinary business transactions if a man does not secure what he desires by the first advertisement, it is customary for him to make a second advertisement, which was the ordinary method in everyday business transactions, and it was furthermore the method prescribed by act of Congress, approved Jan. 27, 1894, with reference to the purchase of articles by various executive departments. The Secretary shields himself behind his own opinion that the seeds offered were not "rare and uncommon." The provision of the law, as to the beneficial effect of frequent changes of seeds from one locality to another, the Secretary had intentionally ignored and disregarded. He had likewise ignored the articles of the other statute which requires re-advertisements for proposals. It was the plain duty of the Secretary, if he were faithful in the performance of his duty and desired to execute the laws of Congress, to have re-advertised and to have earnestly endeavored to aid bidders in offering seeds of the kind and character that the law demanded and that the Secretary required. Instead of this, he rejected all bids upon technical grounds, forthwith abolished the seed division of his department, and announced that there would be no seeds purchased and distributed under the appropriation bill for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896. Altogether the position of the Secretary in the matter was exceedingly lame. That he deliberately set out to disobey the mandate of Congress, there could be no doubt. That he personally was opposed to the purchase and distribution of seeds of any character whether they be "rare or uncommon" or otherwise, there was no question, and so the Senate had here a case in which a higher executive officer deliberately sets aside the law of Congress. The great question above all others was the contumacious conduct of the Secretary. Could an officer of the executive branch of the government who was in effect a high salaried clerk, defiantly and stubbornly refuse to carry into effect the acts of the Congress of the United States?

Mr. George (Dem.) of Mississippi made an argument against the pending joint resolution, which directs the Secretary of Agriculture to carry into effect the provisions of the act.

Free Coinage Opposed.

At 2 p. m. the Vice President interrupted Mr. George's speech and laid before the Senate the House bond bill (with the free silver substitute.) Mr. Nelson (Rep.) of Minnesota addressed the Senate in a first regular speech in the body. He said: "The free and unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1 by the United States alone, at this time and under existing conditions, will destroy the last vestige and last hope of genuine bimetallism and will reduce us to a pure state of silver monometallism, with Mexico, China and Japan as our chief metallic money associates.

"Complete bimetallism implies not only equal privileges but also equal facilities of circulation. Both metals may be freely coined and yet more freely circulated. A metal may be freely coined and yet be powerless to maintain itself in circulation. Though both metals may be freely coined, yet if for any cause only one of these is in active circulation, then there is a failure of that bimetallism which seeks an abundant currency and enhanced prices the chief grounds upon which free coinage is placed. In this full and plenary sense, we have never had complete bimetallism in this country. We have been subject to that law from which no nation is exempt, that where two kinds of metallic money, of equal coin value but of unequal commercial value, circulate side by side, that money which is intrinsically and commercially cheapest, will drive the dearest out of circulation, unless the two are, as a matter of law and fact interconvertible with each other. Our own experience and our own financial history make this plain and manifest. Several times in our existence have we suffered the penalty of this law and sought to overcome its effects."

He concluded by saying: "The silver countries, Mexico, China and Japan, are not the purchasers of our surplus wheat and cotton. We have to look to the gold standard countries for our customers. But when every other argument fails the advocates of free silver appeal to our prejudices and say that by aiming to keep our money up to the gold standard, we are merely knuckling down to England, putting ourselves in her grasp and placing ourselves at her mercy. England occupies the vantage ground she does because her exchanges are made in the universal money of the world. Our form of government, our climate and our resources, and, above all, the restless energy and vigor of our people, entitle us to stand at the head of the industrial and commercial world. But we can never hope to reach that high place by reducing our currency to the level of Mexico, China and Japan the mere bullion value of silver."

A Friend.

Mr. Bacon (Dem.) of Georgia was the next to address the Senate. It was also his maiden speech in the body, and he delivered it with oratorical grace and effect. He spoke of the restoration of silver to general currency on the same terms as gold, as a question which had stood in the foreground of discussion for the last 20 years. He strongly favored such restoration.

Mr. Bacon argued that there was no authority under existing law for the issue of bonds and that if there were such a law it ought to be repealed.

Mr. Bacon carried on an extended colloquy with Mr. Hill (Dem.) of New York as to the effect of the bond issues and contended that instead of issuing bonds to obtain gold, the $177,000,000 of surplus in the treasury should be used in the redemption of government securities the paper money being exchanged for silver coin and the silver coin paid out. He said that if the government persisted in ignoring silver money and in redeeming its obligations only in gold, there would be in a few years five hundred millions locked up in the treasury in the shape of greenbacks and treasury notes and the circulation of the country would be diminished to that extent. At the close of Mr. Bacon's speech, Mr. Clark (Rep.) of Wyoming obtained the floor.

Mr. Lodge (Rep.) of Massachusetts gave notice of an amendment to the bond bill providing for an issue of $100,000,000 in 3 per cent. bonds to provide for coast defenses.

The Senate after a short executive session at 5 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow.

HOUSE.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The House today discussed for four hours and passed by a vote of 143 to 26 the Senate concurrent resolution declaring it to be an imperative duty in the interest of humanity to express the earnest hope that the European concert brought about by the Berlin treaty may be speedily given its just effect in such decisive measures as shall stay the hand of fanaticism and lawless violence and as shall secure to the unoffending Christians of the Turkish empire all the rights belonging to them as men and Christians, and as beneficiaries of the explicit provisions of that treaty; requesting the President to communicate these resolutions to the five signatory powers thereof: and declaring that Congress will support the President in the most vigorous action he may take for the protection and security of American citizens in Turkey and to obtain redress for injuries committed upon the persons and property of such citizens.

Mr. Quigg (Rep.) of New York, at whose request the resolution was taken up, opened the debate and advocated its adoption, as did also Messrs. McCreary (Dem.) of Kentucky, Hitt (Rep.) of Illinois, Morse (Rep.) of Massachusetts, Smith (Rep.) of Michigan, Mahany (Rep.) of New York, Brumm (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, Sperry (Rep.) of Connecticut, and Howe (Rep.) of New York.

Various amendments were offered to it on the ground that it did not go far enough one by Mr. Hepburn (Rep.) of Iowa calling for the dismissal of the Turkish minister at Washington, and the severence of diplomatic relations with Turkey, but they were all rejected Messrs. Turner (Dem.) of Georgia, Grosvenor (Rep.) of Ohio, Walsh (Dem.) of Ohio, Adams (Rep.) of Pennsylvania Johnson (Rep.) of California and Bailey (Dem.) of Texas, argued against the resolution.

The diplomatic and consular appropriation for the coming fiscal year was reported. The House at 4:55 adjourned till to-morrow.

Satisfactory reports have been received of the relief work in Anatolia. One hundred and twenty thousand persons depend upon the Anglo-American fund for their daily bread.

A NEW BUILDING FOR THE COUNTY.

A Proposition to Locate It in the South Park.

SOME DETAILS OF THE PLAN.

An Offer May Be Made by the County Commissioners to the Colorado Springs Company to Give the Present Building Site.

For some years past in this city the final site of the county building has been a vexed question. The present site, where the county offices are, is well located, but it is not situated as one would be in the center of a public square. The county authorities have made overtures several times to the city and the Colorado Springs company for a site in the south park, but hitherto the company has been unwilling to entertain any proposition that would allow the use of any park land for a public building.

The matter has now come up again, and in a shape which may make it feasible for the new county building to be located in the south park. The present county buildings are entirely insufficient for the accomodation of the county offices. The court rooms are incommodious, and the county officers are crowded uncomfortably. Worst of all, the county records are unsafe where they are. A fire might destroy records of priceless value to the county, which nothing could possibly replace. If the new county building should be erected on the site of the present buildings, the county officers would have to be domiciled elsewhere while the new building was going up, and that would cost a large sum of money. Besides that, the present quarter block has other buildings on two sides, and would not make an ideal site for a fine building on that account.

The title to the south park is vested in the city, with a reversionary right to the Colorado Springs company if it should ever be used for any other purpose. In order to acquire title, therefore, to any part of it, it would be necessary to get a deed from the city, and a quit-claim deed of its reversionary rights from the company.

What is Proposed.

It is now proposed that the city and the company shall give the site for a new county building in the south park to the county; and in return, the county shall turn over the present property at the corner of Nevada avenue and Kiowa street to be sold, and the proceeds to be placed in a park fund for the use of the city. The city and the Colorado Springs company are both interested in the beautification of the city and the extension of its park system. It is thought that they may be willing, therefore, if the park fund to be provided by the new scheme is made up to a large sum, to give up the use of as much of the south park as may be necessary for the county building. The park contains now 160,000 square feet of ground, and the building, which would probably be placed in the center, would not take more than one-tenth of the space. The remainder, it is thought, would be amply sufficient for park purposes; and the south end of the city, especially property immediately surrounding the park, would gain appreciably in value from the location of the buildings there. If the property owners in the neighborhood appreciate the situation, as there is reason to think they do, and will contribute liberally to the proposed park fund, it is not thought that there will be any further serious objection on the part either of the city council or of the Colorado Springs company to the acquisition by the county of the site in the park.

Advantages of the Plan.

The advantages of the proposed plan are obvious. It would give the county an ideal site for its new building, in exchange for a site which to say the least is not so good; it would give to the city a good park fund, which could be expended judiciously in the beautification of the city grounds; it would raise the value of real estate in the south part of the city; and it would injure nobody.

The present negotiations are in charge of Col. E. T. Ensign, who has no further interest in the matter than his desire to see the county and the city benefitted. The county commissioners have been sounded on the matter, and they are favorable to the idea, though they do not wish to take decisive action until there has been an opportunity for an expression of public sentiment on the question. No formal proposition has yet been made by them to the city or to the Colorado Springs company, but such a proposition is expected to be made in a few days. Meantime, the property owners in the neighborhood of the south park have been seen, and all of those who have been approached express a willingness to aid the plan by every means in their power.

The disposition of the fund which would acrue to the city from the sale of the present county property under this plan would be a mattert o be determined in the future. The new building would take more than a year to construct, and in the meantime, a park commission might be provided for, if that should seem advisable, and the further details of the plan could be worked on in leisure. The only pressing matter is the exchange proposed of the present county site for the site in the park.

Quickly Defeated.

London, Jan. 27.—The fight between Dan Creedon and Jem Smith for a purse of £400 took place to-night at the National Sporting club. Creedon easily defeated his opponent in the second round. The fighting lasted less than seven minutes.

Accidentally Shot.

Lyons, Neb. Jan. 27. James Williams, a young farmer, is dead, the result of a pistol shot inflicted last Friday by Miss Rose Pettie, a young lady whom he was soon to wed. The two were playing with the weapon, and the shooting was purely accidental. The young woman is nearly distracted over the distressing affair.

In the Supreme Court.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Another immense crowd congregated about the doors of the Supreme Court of the United States this morning attracted thither by the prospect of hearing Mr. Joseph H. Choate conclude the argument against the Wright irrigation law of California. Before he resumed his address to the court which was begun on Friday afternoon, a considerable routine business was transacted.

SENATE REORGANIZATION.

Populists May Vote With the Republicans for Once.

Washington, Jan 27.—A call was issued this afternoon for a Republican caucus, to be held next Thursday to consider the reorganization of the elective officers of the Senate. One of the leading members of the party said this evening that the Populists believed that the Republicans, having the most members, should be charged with the responsibility of the whole Senate and the Populists would be content to permit them to assume that responsibility but they were opposed to doing the thing by easy stages.

THEODORE RUNYON.

United States Ambassador to Germany Died from Heart Failure.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—The Hon. Theodore Runyon, United States ambassador to Germany, expired suddenly and unexpectedly at 1 o'clock this morning. He awoke at midnight, and complained of suffering from a pain in his heart. Dr. Grunar was hastily summoned, and when he reached the ambassador's residence he found Mr. Runyon unconscious, dying shortly afterwards. His death was painless, and resulted from heart failure. Only the family of the ambassador was present at his bedside when he passed away. Mr. Runyon had two previous attacks of heart failure, but they were not considered dangerous.

The remains of the United States ambassador will be accorded a state funeral at the American church here on Wednesday. The body will be embalmed and will be taken to his home at Newark, N. J.

A DELICATE MATTER.

The Request for an American Agent in the Transvaal.

Washington, Jan. 27. The cabled request of the American residents of the Transvaal that President Cleveland send a diplomatic agent there to look after the interests of the American citizens arrested for complicity in the late alleged Uitlander's conspiracy, has been received at the State Department. No action has been taken upon the request, but Secretary Olney is said to have talked it over with the President at a long conference between them this morning.

There is a somewhat delicate question involved in appointing a representativ with diplomatic functions to a state over which Great Britain claims suzerainty. It was recently semi-officially announced from London that if Emperor William sent a diplomatic officer to Pretoria Great Britain would regard it as a declaration of war.

WILD HORSES.

Prof. Gleason Tamed Four Steeds Last Night.

A large and most enthusiastic audience greeted Prof. O. R. Gleason last evening at the opening of his week's engagement at the Coliseum hall. Prominent members of society were everywhere in evidence.

The Professor handled four animals during his exciting and daring exhibition and their taming was highly interesting. The first animal to encounter this wonderful horseman was a young chestnut colt owned by Judge E. A. Colburn. This handsome equine was afflicted with the serious and dangerous habit of kicking, and his owner has had a number of vehicles demolished since the nervous brute came into his possession. He was also nervously afraid of paper and other objects. Judge Coburn's animal made a desperate fight, and several times endeavored to wander through the audience. He would lunge and plunge wildly at the attendants, but in a remarkably short time Prof. Gleason had him entirely under his control, and successfully drove him single and double around the ring.

The taming of the other horses was intensely exciting, and the large audience showed their appreciation by continued applause.

Prof. Gleason has invented a new bridle and driving bit and demonstrated their success during last evening's exhibition. The Professor will give a second exhibition this evening, and continue each evening during the remaindor of the week.

Gold Reserve.

Washington, Jan. 27.—The treasury gold reserve to-day at the close of business stood at $50,533,513. There was deposited at New York $1,000,000 in gold and $131,000 in gold was withdrawn.

THE LATEST FROM CRIPPLE CREEK.

Strikes and Developments in the Greatest Camp.

SOME VERY RICH SPECIMENS.

Claimed to be the Finest Ever Seen in Camp—Why St. Louis Tunnel Stock Went Up—Other Strikes Reported on Various Claims.

Special to The Gazette.

Cripple Creek, Jan. 27.—The Grouse on Bull hill is in better ore than ever. At 170 feet depth, in the second level, a cross cut has been started and was driven eight feet, when a second or parallel vein was encountered bearing sylvanite ore. The Grouse has been shipping ten to fifteen tons of ore per day, but it is now expected that the amount will be increased to 20 tons. The Grouse No. 2 which is a new shaft to the north of the old workings is down 128 feet and is shipping an average of ten tons per day. This property is being worked by Wright, Marshall and Anderson.

The Bent lease on the Mollie Kathleen on Tenderfoot hill has struck an eight foot vein of ore that in portions is very rich. The owner, H. D. Gortner, shows specimens that have been roasted and are covered with yellow specks of gold. There is about two feet of this sort of rock in the vein which was struck in a cross cut at a depth of 125 feet.

There is a good showing at present in the T. F. T. which is situated in the saddle between Bull hill and Tenderfoot. The property is worked on lease.

The Bartlett lease on the Blue Bird is shipping considerable ore. A car load shipped to the Omaha and Grant smelter gave returns of $150 to the ton and this is about an average shipment. In addition to a car load a week to the smelter, about 20 cars are sent to the cyanide mills and a considerable quantity of low low grade ore to the stamp mill.

Two claims, the Sidebottom and Minnie S., were sold by W. T. Jones to-day to Denver parties. There are good veins and a promising outlook in both claims.

The Bull Hill and Straub Mountain Gold Mining and Milling company have taken a year's lease on the Grotto and Accident claims belonging to the Grotto Gold Mining company. Drifting has been resumed in the 85 foot shaft and a good vein has just been opened which is supposed to be the continuation of the veins on the south slope of the hill. The new company propose to put in an entire new plant of machinery including a steam hoist. A full force of men will be put to work and the property is expected to become a shipper in 30 days.

A good vein has been opened up on the Clara D. which side-lines with Mattie L. The lease was purchased a few days ago by Easterners. They have already a two foot vein which shows sylvanite and rusty gold. This will add a shipping mine to Gold hill.

A strike was made yesterday in the drift at the 85-foot level in the Burns shaft belonging to the Acacia company which recently absorbed the Calumet. A big body of sylvanite ore was opened up which shows free gold.

One of the richest and finest specimens ever shown in camp was exhibited here to-day by a man who secured the ore himself from the Lincoln mine and had it roasted. The piece weighed about a third of a pound and is one of the best proofs that has been obtained that the Lincoln is a genuine mine.

The report of a strike on the Lottie has been confirmed. The lessees have a big body of ore in sight and a new shaft house is nearing completion.

Specimens from the Geneva were seen to-day, carrying sylvanite in seams one-eighth to one-sixth of an inch in thickness. The specimens were taken from a vein struck a day or two ago and are said to be the richest ever taken out of a mine.

A good strike is reported in the tunnel of the St. Louis and Cripple Creek Mining company. The company has been working in a big dyke of low grade ore for some time. At 200 feet they ran a cross cut and have opened up a vein of ore four feet wide. It is fine looking rock. They also have a good vein in the breast of the tunnel. All of the particulars could not be learned.

NOT A COMPROMISE.

Millions For Defense But Not One Cent For Tribute.

Mr. W. S. Stratton was seen yesterday by a representative of The Gazette, and said that if there was anybody who thought that he had paid L. W. Popejoy anything to settle his alleged claim against him, that they are mistaken. He expected to have to go to trial with the case to-day, and he did not know that they were going to withdraw it. Mr. Stratton said that there was no justice in the claim, and he proposed to defend himself against that and every other suit of the kind. It had cost him something like $10,000 to get ready to fight this suit, while he could have compromised it at any time for a few hundred. That he did not propose to do for it would give a semblance of truth to the claim when it was utterly unjust.

It should be stated that the gentleman who was asked regarding the case Saturday night and who said that the suit had been settled was busily engaged in talking at the time with another man and undoubtedly did not have the same idea in mind as the reporter, who asked the question. He meant that there would be no trial, while his questioner meant to ask if it was a compromise. The following letter from Judge Salmon, Mr. Stratton's attorney, gives a fuller explanation:

Mr. Salmon Explains.

Sir: I notice in the issue of your paper on Sunday, Jan. 26, 1896, that you state in relation to the dismissal of the suit of Popejoy against Stratton, that Mr. Stratton "made some kind of a settlement with Popejoy and that it was admitted by a gentleman who is familiar with the suit, that such was the case." In these statements you are entirely mistaken. Several cases, including the Popejoy case, were commenced against Mr. Stratton by various persons in the spring of last year, when he was very sick in bed and it was reported that he might not live. Mr. Stratton considered that all these suits were unjust and without foundation, and were commenced to try and get something from his estate in the event of his death. He has resisted them all and has steadily refused and still refuses to settle any of them. The Popejoy case was not settled. Nothing has been paid or has been agreed to be paid to Mr. Popejoy. He attempted to obtain a settlement and offered to settle for very little, but failed. In a letter received by me yesterday morning from Mr. Charles J. Hughes, Jr., of Denver, who is one of Mr. Stratton's counsel, Mr. Hughes states as follows: "This morning George Corbin, Esq., of this city, one of the attorneys for Popejoy, telephoned to learn what if any result had come from the suggestions he had made to me, and which I communicated orally to Mr. Wilson, and later wrote to you. I informed him that Mr. Stratton declined to consider any proposition or to pay anything by way of a settlement." It was after this interview with Mr. Hughes that Popejoy's counsel made up their minds to abandon and dismiss the action.

Mr. Stratton, in my judgment, would be very foolish to pay the eminent counsel, whom he has employed, large fees and then settle his cases, when he could have settled them for a song without employing counsel.

Yours very truly,
F. G. SALMON.

DISTRICT COURT.

Murder Trial in the First, Civil Business in the Second.

In the first division of the District Court yesterday the trial of Frank Smith, Jack Berry and Thomas Cook for the killing of Benton at Goldfield last October, was begun. Benton, it will be remembered, was killed in a sort of battle that was fought there one Sunday afternoon in which several were wounded.

The trial occupied most of the day yesterday, it taking until late in the afternoon to secure the jury. The jury accepted was as follows: D. P. Sill, Fred Theobold, J. B. Glasser, D. F. Alcohl, A. B. Jordine, C. F. Ormsby, George F. Vaux, Wesley Nethers, O. Palmer, W. H. Perry, H. T. Williams, R. J. Mansfield.

Gen. Danford is leading the counsel for the defense and Mr. Blackmer is prosecuting. The prosecution had not completed its testimony last evening at the hour of adjournment, and it will probably take another day to conclude the case.

Second Division.

In the second division there was a good deal of business in the way of motions, it being motion day. The jury in the Cardinal Newman company vs. W. T. Evans, et al., case returned its verdict. The jury found for the defendant, giving the territory in dispute to the Last Chance claim as against the Maid of Erin. This is the second time that the case has been so decided.

The suit of Popejoy vs. Stratton was dismissed at the motion of defendant.

The suit of the Anchoria-Leland company vs. Frank G. Peck and the Gold and Globe company is now on trial on the motion to dissolve the injunction. About two weeks ago the Anchoria-Leland people got a temporary injunction stopping work on a certain piece of ground which it had leased to Peck and others. It develops that the Gold and Globe company claimed the territory on the apex and sideline questions. The present hearing is on the motion to dissolve the injunction and not on the final merits of the controversy.

Report on Seal Fisheries.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Secretary Carlisle sent to the House to-day in response to a resolution, the report of Prof. Elliott of the Smithsonian Institute, on the condition of the fur seal fisheries of Alaska.

On the Retired List.

Washington, Jan. 27. Chief Engineer Herman Herwig, United States navy; Capt. Samuel Mercer, United State marine corps, and Carpenter D. W. Nesh, United States navy, have been placed on the retired list.

The Squadron Remains.

London, Jan. 27.—It is announced that the new flying squadron of British warships now assembled off Berehaven, Bantry Bay, on the south coast of Ireland, will not sail until after the funeral of Prince Henry of Battenberg.

Coroner Marlow got back from Victor yesterday, where he was called Sunday to investigate the suicide of a man named George Pethbidge. He died from an overdose of morphine. Pethbidge was about 45 years old, and had evidently been a cattle shipper. He was using the name of Johnson and had evidently tried to destroy all traces of his identity. He only went to Victor a few days before with a party of excursionists from Kansas City. He had evidently spent all of the money that he brought with him and was despondent. He is supposed to be a Canadian.

The quaint ceremony of the Japanese wedding will be acted out in full detail by 27 of the young people of the Baptist church this evening in full Oriental costume. After the marriage a Japanese tea will be served in costume in the vestry rooms of the church. The wedding will begin at 8 o'clock, and the ushers, door keepers and all connected with the entertainment will be in full Japanese dress, even in matter of shoes.

A man from a small town in Kansas was picked up by the police early yesterday morning in the alley by the city hall very much intoxicated. He had on his person about $500 in money and other valuables amounting to $500 more. He did not know how he got here or why when he awoke, and says that it is the second time that he has taken a drunken freak of that kind.

A fellow who is badly paralyzed has been hanging around the city begging for some time and doing a good business. The money has been spent for drink and finally the police got tired of him. Last evening they caught him with $15 on his person, bought him a ticket and started him for Kansas City.

The week opened with a strong and higher market for stocks The rise in prices at the opening was the result of the execution of buying orders for both home and foreign account London paid considerable attention to St. Paul, Louisville and Nashville and Reading stocks, and Union mortgages. The comparatively easy condition of the money market, the improved outlook for an early settlement of the Venezuelan boundary question indicated by the speech of Mr. Chamberlain on Saturday, and the reduction in the posted rates of sterling exchange all contributed to the strength of the market. London, according to good judges, bought at least 20,000 shares of various stocks The rise in prices during the early session ranged from ⅛ to 1¼ per cent, the Grangers, Sugar, Louisville and Nashville and Reading leading. CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan 27. Contrary to expectations wheat did not keep on advancing this morning. The crowd was fixed for a boom, the bull fever having an intimidating effect on the usually sanguine "short" sellers, and a rush of country buying orders being looked for. The unexpected happened, however, and instead of an imperative demand there was a plethora of offerings. Armour was openly and conspicuously a seller of May wheat, prices yielding to the pressure and declining from the start, which was from ⅛ to ¼ cent higher than Saturday

Corn The instability of corn values was demonstrated at the opening this morning, when prices, notwithstanding temporary strength in wheat, were ⅛ to ¼ cents under Saturday. Liverpool cables quoted half pence advance, which was in response to the strength of Saturday on this side Receipts at Chicago were 330 cars. There were no withdrawal from store. The tone was easy throughout, and the loss at the start was succeeded by further declines.

NEW YORK TRIBUNE

Leader of the Republican Party

Are You Willing to Listen to a Suggestion?

The New York Tribune's broad columns and large print make it the easiest paper in the country to read, either on the cars or at home

Henry Romeike, proprietor of the largest Newspaper Clipping Agency in the world, testifies in a published card, that his clippings for over 4000 clients show that The Tribune contains, day by day, and week by week, far more original matter than any daily newspaper in New York City" He proves the fact by figures The Weekly ranks the same

Business men find the market reports of The Tribune absolutely without an equal. The Tribune is the only newspaper in New York City whose reporters actually visit all the different markets in person.

The Tribune now prints the best and freshest humorous pictures of the day from the comic press of two continents, and supplies plenty of other entertainment.

By its special telegrams and correspondence, its able editorials and high literary character, The Tribune maintains a splendid position in the regard of Republicans and lovers of music, art and good books.

The Tribune's society news is known everywhere for excellence Its fashions have always been of special value and changes of style are, as a rule, foretold in The Tribune sooner than in other newspapers.

The New York Tribune is recognized, officially, as the leading newspaper of the Republican party.

As for Farming and Labor, The Tribune has for fifty years demanded, and yet demands, that every possible dollar's worth of food and commodities, consumed by the American people, shall be produced by the American people. For this cause, The Tribune labors in its various editions 365 days in every year.

A man is judged by the newspaper he takes He who reads the Tribune is wide awake, progressive, respectable and capable, worthy of the confidence of business and social friends. If you are a young man, you will live in a rut all your life (except by catering to that which is base) if you feed your mind upon newspapers, full of scandal, vulgarity and inanity. Think for a moment of the people who read newspapers of that class. On the other hand, The Tribune has probably the largest clientele of the very people who can help to improve a young man's position, of any newspaper in the United States. Associate yourself with them

Mr. Horr continues to write for The Tribune.

THE SITUATION IN ARMENIA.

Relief Work Progressing by English and Americans.

SUFFERING AND DESTITUTION.

An Awful Massacre as Late as December 31st—Danger at Sivas and Marash—Bread and Clothing are Being Distributed.

Boston, Jan. 27.—The following letter from Constantinople under date of Jan. 4 surveys the general situation in the disturbed districts of Turkey:

On Dec. 31st a terrible slaughter of half of the Christian inhabitants of Biredjik took place. It is said that the Kurds did these things. Panic prevailed at Angora and all along from there to Nicomedia last week.

Some new danger has threatened Sivas. At Marash the situation is not good. Mr. Terrell has been promised that regular troops shall replace the Redif guards there and has new cautions given the governor. At Cesarea the situation has improved, though confidence is weak.

At Harpoot destitution is terrible beyond all comparison with other places [illegible] from. The total killed known is [illegible] and [illegible] houses have been burned. The area here included is about one-fifth of the whole devastated, but it seems likely that the losses are one-third of the whole.

At Mardin it is still impossible to go outside of the walls of the city. At Bitlis there is more security for the missionaries who will probably remain there all winter. Urfa has suffered a good deal from panic. Hadjin is still safe but reports are now circulating of trouble there.

The college (male) of the American board of Harpoot has commenced [illegible] classes. At Sivas the missionary schools have been reopened and the people are [illegible] out fairly well. There has been a season of fasting and prayer at Marsovan. The people say that even the nursing babies were made to fast until noon.

Relief work grows apace. The Duke of Westminster's committee has sent £2,000 more. In Van about 900 people are being helped with funds sent by Dr. Grace Kimball of Bangor, Me., who has rented two public ovens for feeding the poor. Consul Hampson at Moush has the Hassoun villagers still safe and is furnishing them with grain. In Trebizond about 900 people are being helped.

At Harpoot relief work has been authorized after pressure from English and American legations and the first thousand has already been distributed. At Constantinople missionary rooms are transferred into clothing warehouses. The clothing and bedding go mainly to near points, Trebizond and Cesarea.

The ambassadors have intervened to save the populace of Zeitoun and a consular commission has been accepted to go there and mediate and prevent massacre when the place surrenders.

The Ocean Wave.

The leasees on the Ocean Wave, on Battle mountain, which belongs to the Creede and Cripple Creek company, are now taking out some good ore and expect to ship a car load of it in a few days. Some of the ore is very rich and assays as high as $100 per ton, though only $70 per ton is expected for the carload lot. The streak from which this comes is 18 inches wide, the vein itself being much wider.

There is now a steam hoist at work on the property and it is expected that it will be a steady shipper from now on. Heretofore the mine has been somewhat variable in its product, but the vein is now well in place and it is thought that the grade of the ore as well as the quantity will be even from now on.

Mr. J. A. Hayes, cashier of the First National bank, is quite seriously ill with pneumonia. His condition was reported somewhat better yesterday.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Orinoco Mining company, held at the office of the company's room, 16 Midland block, yesterday, it was resolved to raise the price of the stock this morning to $7.50.

THE WORLD'S RIVERS.

Twelve creeks in the United States bear the name of the Rhine.

Every ancient city of note was located on or near the sea or a river.

The Euphrates is termed in the east the Royal river, from the fact that 672 kings have reigned on its banks.

The Seine is 470 miles in length, and during the lower part of its course frequently attains a width of a mile.

The floods of the Nile are so regular in their coming that for hundreds of years they have not varied ten days in the date of their arrival at a given point.

The word meander comes from the river of the same name, whose course was so devious that it furnished nearly every modern language with a new word.

The value of protective works for the banks of rivers was known to the Romans. A large stretch of the Tiber, in Rome, above and below that city, was protected by revetting the banks.

There are three rivers known as Colorado. The first is in Utah and Arizona and is 1,300 miles long; the second is a river of Texas, 900 miles in length; the third is in the Argentine Republic, in South America, and is 400 miles long.

The river Platte during the summer is dry along the greater portion of its course. The water runs underground, only an occasional pool appearing on the surface. By digging almost anywhere in its course a supply of fresh, cool water may be obtained.

THE PEARL OF THE PACIFIC.

Hawaii still wants to join us. If we do not want her, Johnny Bull would act as parent.—Indianapolis News.

What's the use of Hawaii seeking admission to the Union? Dole himself states that not a man in there is itching for office.—St. Paul Globe.

The United States ought to own the Hawaiian Islands, for the great power that owns them will control the north Pacific.—Denver Republican.

Miss Kate Field of Washington and President Dole of the Hawaiian republic are talking up union with considerable enthusiasm, but as yet the matter has gone no farther than a proposal to annex Hawaii to the United States. There is no wedding in sight.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Kate Field, writing from Honolulu, announces that Hawaii is anxious to be annexed to the United States. Miss Field is thus early in the campaign of leap year work. She once made a great fight on plurality of wives among the Mormons of Utah, but she believes in the more the merrier for Uncle Sam.—Springfield Leader-Democrat.

THE WORLD'S RIVERS.

The Mississippi and its tributaries drain an area of 2,000,000 square miles.

The Ganges is 1,570 miles long and drains an area of 750,000 square miles.

The River Dee, in Scotland, has had more poems written in its honor than any other stream on the British isle.

Australia has no rivers of any consequence. The interior of this vast continent is almost destitute of water.

All the rivers which flow into the Arctic ocean are frozen solidly to the bottom during about six months in every year.

A German authority states that from the mouth to the source of the Rhine 725 castles, formerly the homes of warlike chiefs, are to be found overlooking its waters.

The length of the Kongo is believed to exceed 2,000 miles, and it drains an area of 800,000 square miles. In its lower course it is frequently more than five miles in width.

The Yellow river is styled the "Sorrow of China." During the last century it has changed its course 22 times. It is estimated that its floods in the present century have cost China 11,000,000 of lives.

The famous rivers of ancient Greece, which are mentioned so often by the poets and historians of the peninsula, were mere creeks, some of them scarcely larger than brooks, and not deserving the name of river.

The Rio Grande del Norte, between Texas and Mexico, is 1,800 miles long, but in many places during a dry season can easily be forded by pedestrians. The Rio Grande de Santiago of Mexico is 1,250 miles in length.

The Po, in north Italy, is 360 miles in length. The deposits at its mouth have caused the coast to gain upon the sea so rapidly that a point which in the time of Augustus was a seaport town is now 15 miles from the Adriatic.

IT WAS A WARM TIME.

The Councilmen Indulged in Charges and Personalities.

THERE WAS NOT MUCH BUSINESS

But It Took a Long Time to Do It Other Local News—Death of Ex-Mayor Stillman—$10,000 Damages are Wanted.

There was a hot time at the council meeting last evening. It was quite as entertaining and almost as much high kicking as Gleason had up at his show. The meeting was for the purpose of considering the issue of water bonds with which to put through Strickler tunnel. Every member was present, but the city attorney did not appear with an ordinance in regard to the bonds, and the aldermen put in their time stirring things up.

Alderman Dunbar stated that Thomas Rice had withdrawn as the superintendent of the water works at the Lake Moraine end, and presented a resolution expressing the regret of the council and commending Mr. Rice's good work. This was adopted.

G. A. Whiteneck, who is to take Mr. Rice's place, was made a special policeman.

Alderman Dunbar presented a resolution calling for a settlement with Palsgrove Brothers for a right of way for the city pipe line over their land at the Half-way house. The matter of a compromise was presented at the last meeting. The city now has condemnation suits against the land, and it was proposed to settle with them for $1,300.

A long continued discussion followed this which brought out the sensation of the evening. Aldermen Watson and Hughes opposed the settlement. Alderman Watson said that his reasons for opposing the matter were that it was better that it go through the courts. He had seen a good many things of that kind come from the same source as this and he did not trust it. He did not want to make certain charges but he could make them if necessary. The alderman talked in this strain for several minutes, hitting at the water committee or its chairman. Alderman Dunbar finally insisted that he say out what he knew if he knew anything wrong.

A Sensational Charge.

Alderman Watson then turned himself loose. He said that he would not vote for anything of that kind that the alderman from the First engineered, because in a certain settlement for a right of way for a pipe line that gentleman had taken money. There were men right in that room who had told him that Dunbar had exhibited a roll of bills and declared to him that he had received them for settlement of the claim.

Alderman Watson then called up the [illegible] refunding bonds and said that Alderman Dunbar had tried to get him to vote for the bid of Rollins & Son. That after the kick was made on their bid, Alderman Dunbar in some way had got all the newspaper credit for saving the city $1,500. He also declared that the alderman had been palming himself off down in Boston as the mayor of the city.

Alderman Dunbar arose to state that he had made no such talk about the bid of Rollins & Son. He had never tried to pass as the mayor of the city down in Boston. He considered it an insult and infamous that any one should say that he took money for the settlement with the Boston Land company for a right of way. The men in that company were not people who gave bribes.

Alderman Watson moved that a special committee be appointed to take charge of the Palsgrove matter. This was carried and the Mayor appointed Watson as chairman and Hughes and Woodland as the committee.

At this point Alderman Barnett's wrath broke out. He arose in a Corbett-Fitzsimmons sort of way and inquired if the alderman from the Fifth meant him when he referred to the water committee. When he learned that such was not the case he went on to say that he was sorry that such a talk had been made. Mr. Palsgrove had not made him an offer of any kind. He thought that the alderman must be mistaken.

The New Water Bonds.

Engineer Reid presented a report showing what ought to be done in repairs and construction this year on the water works. The amount necessary including the Strickler tunnel is $170,000.

Alderman Hughes moved that the city attorney be instructed to draft an ordinance for the issue of $170,000 worth of bonds, to be presented at the next meeting. Carried.

The bond of Wilson & Jackson was approved.

Alderman Hughes called up the matter of collecting a bill for $172 against the street commissioner for feeding his horse. This took about an hour in discussion, although it has been discussed and settled two or three times before. The result was that the council voted this time not to collect the bill.

Edward Ferris, F. E. Robinson and other business men petitioned that the hacks and baggage wagons be removed from in front of their places of business, as they are a nuisance. Referred to the street committee.

Mayor Plumb called attention to the death of the late Mayor Stillman. Upon motion the council voted to procure carriages and attend the funeral to-day in a body. The police will also attend by direction of the council.

Alderman Hughes read an ordinance regarding the storage of oils, gasoline, etc., in the city, which he will ask the council to adopt.

The meeting then adjourned.

Wants Heavy Damages.

A suit was filed in the District Court yesterday by Mrs. Alice Underhill against Mrs. J. Gumm for $10,000 damages. The complaint states that the plaintiff is a widow with four children, and has lived in this city for several years. She names four persons, all women, who have told her that Mrs. Gumm said that when she (Mrs. Gumm) was sick defendant sent her some brandy having poison in it, that it might kill her so that plaintiff might marry Mr. Gumm. That she drank some of it and that it made her sick. Plaintiff learned of this two months ago, and her feelings have been hurt so badly that she wants $10,000 damages.

The defendant is the wife of Mr. W. H. Gumm, a well-known citizen who has a stage line to Cripple Creek. She is quite an old lady. They are quite well-to-do.

JOHN W. STILLMAN.

Death of a Prominent Citizen and Ex-Mayor of Colorado Springs.

Ex-Mayor John W. Stillman died yesterday morning at his home in this city. Death occurred at 8:50 o'clock. Mr. Stillman was taken sick about two weeks ago with a severe cold, which developed into pneumonia. For several days his death was expected, as there were other serious complications. Sunday evening he became unconscious and remained in this condition until the time of his death.

John W. Stillman was born at Pittsfield, Conn., in 1827. In later years he removed to Bristol, Conn., where he married Fanny I. Avery, daughter of Horatio Avery. From there they went to Horicon, Wis., where he was engaged in the lumber and also in the dry goods business. Mr. Stillman removed to this State about 17 years ago. He engaged in the dry goods business after coming here with Messrs. E. W. and L. A. Giddings, and retired from active business about eight years ago. Mr. Stillman served the city as an alderman from the First ward during the years 1886-87. In April, 1889, he was elected mayor of the city and served two terms of one year each. Mrs. Stillman died three years ago and no children survive them. Their niece, Mrs. Frank Dennis and family, have always made their home with them, and in their old age they received the care and attention of loved parents.

The funeral services will be held from the residence, 116 North Nevada avenue, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. After a short service the Masonic lodges will take charge of the remains and conduct the funeral according to the ritual of the order. Mr. Stillman was for many years prominent in the order here and was a Knight Templar. The interment will be in Evergreen cemetary.

Mayor Stillman was a very quiet man but positive in his views. His opinions were respected and he was trusted by every one who knew him as scrupulously honest. It was his high character that caused him to be twice elected mayor of this Republican city, when he was an active partizan of the Democracy. Mr. Stillman was of genial and social disposition, and he will be missed among his fellow townsmen.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

A crowd of young men thoroughly enjoyed the men's rally at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Rev. Mr. Barrett gave them an earnest address. The musical programme for the service was especially pleasing. The trio by the Misses Noyes and McVety and Wilmer Culver was well rendered as was the orchestra selection by the entire orchestra of five pieces.

All members of the Y. M. C. A. are reminded of the quarterly business meeting to-night at 8 o'clock. After the business session Prof. P. M. Bach will give a "Familiar Talk on Observations in Astronomy." All gentlemen who are interested can secure tickets free of charge by applying to the secretary at the association rooms. This talk will be illustrated.

Seven applications for membership are now in hand waiting to be acted upon to-night. All who contemplate joining the association should do so at once. Hand in your application to-day.

West Creek Formation.

The Denver Republican prints the following from its West Creek correspondent:

"The longer one mingles with the people who go to make up the population of the West Creek mining camp, the more he becomes convinced of their hopefulness for the future value of the mineral to be uncovered here in the very near future. The formation of the substances through which the prospector is compelled to go before reaching the true fissure veins is making the progress in development work necessarily slow. This being the case, those who expect the development of mines in a day are needlessly impatient in their clamor for ore of a value that will warrant a shipment. This district is one that is conceded by all those who know anything of its formation to be one requiring considerable time, capital and labor to develop. But the fact is also claimed that when developed it will equal if not surpass the world renowned field of Cripple Creek. Owing to the fact that a number of the claims showing the best prospects are located upon what is known as the timber reserve, the holders have been backward in taking out any ore for fear of trouble.

"In talking with old and experienced miners who have prospected in Colorado for years, and who were among the pioneers at Cripple Creek, it is learned that the two main veins traversing this district are the same in form and appearance as those at Cripple Creek. One is known here as the Hoosier, and the other as the Big Blue. These two principal veins seem to emanate from Pike's Peak the same as the celebrated veins on which the noted mines at Cripple Creek are located. These veins are traced by the appearance of numerous dykes all the way across the West Creek district. The great ore veins of Cripple Creek extend in one direction from Pike's Peak, and those of West Creek in another, the only noticeable difference being that the mineral in paying quantities is perhaps deeper here than at Cripple. This may be accounted for from the fact that the top, or surface rock here is a granite formation, and this being of a necessarily hard and stubborn nature, the terrible eruption and commotion that must have occurred in this region at some remote period in the history of the world was unable to force the mineral as high here as at other places, except at certain points where it has been forced even through the granite formations and appears on the surface. There is no longer any question as to the existence of these well defined mineral bearing leads or veins in this district, but as before noted, its quantity is yet to be determined.

"Your correspondent visited yesterday several prospect holes where work is being pushed as rapidly as possible, and made a personal examination of their surroundings. While the quality or value of the rock could not be ascertained from the examination and tests that we were enabled to make it was fully demonstrated, nevertheless, that the yellow stuff was there."

The Defaulter.

Lincoln J. Carter, the bright American playwright, lives in Chicago, and it was in that city that his plays, "The Fast Mail," "The Tornado," and "The Defaulter," received their initial representation. "The Defaulter," Mr. Carter's latest work, was seen there for the first time on any stage, June 16, 1895. It is written in a forcible and intelligent manner; tells a story of uncommon interest; the dialogue is vigorous, the climaxes strong and carefully and naturally worked up to; it is well acted and handsomely staged, and what is more to the point, it treats of a subject never before touched upon by dramatists. "The Defaulter will be given its first production in this city at the Opera House next Saturday evening.

Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association.

Colorado Springs, Jan. 27.—It was an active market at to-day's call, with a large and varied amount of stocks changing hands. A. J. sold 1000 at 60½, 2200 at 60 and closed at 60½ bid. Isabella was exceedingly active, selling to the extent of 16,000 shares. It opened with a block of 100 at 56¾ and 500 at 57, then there were numerous sales at 56¾ and a drop was made to 56½, the rest varied between that price and 56, but it closed at 56¾ bid, with none offered at less than 57¼. Pharmacist was the heaviest seller among the listed stocks, making the large total of 21,500 sales, holding up well between 17¾ and 18. Golden Fleece sold 1500 at $1.60, $1.62 and $1.61. Union also was a large trader, mainly at 42½ with a thousand shares selling at 43. Trading among the prospects was also large. Alamo started at 8¾ but 300 sales followed at 8½. Bob Lee was active and strong, starting at 2½ and rising gradually as high as to 3½, then settled back at 3 closing firm, after scoring 15,000 sales. Creede and Cripple Creek at 6¾ and 6⅞ had 900 sales. Among the unlisted stocks St. Louis and Cripple Creek Tunnel was the feature, starting with sales at 3¾ and rising rapidly to 6¾, with 12,000 shares going at this latter figure.

Weekly Letter Extracts.

The Woods Investment company in their weekly letter say: "Signs of sanity are already seen in the mining stock business in Colorado. The penny whistle stock is apparently not in demand as formerly, and the beginning of the end is noted in the mining exchange fad; the movement to consolidate all mining stock interests into a reputable whole having started upon Thursday, when twenty-five of the leading members of the Board of Trade joined the first exchange, the Colorado Springs Mining Stock association, in a body, and we believe it will be but a few weeks ere but one exchange of any importance will be found in this city. The same state of affairs will ultimately exist in Denver, and many of the minor state exchanges will drop out.

"This is for the good of the business, and, through it all, the old exchange of this city, with the wealth and influence of its membership, will make the market price on stocks for home and eastern markets.

"The "cry from Macedonia" (N. Y.) as well as other points in the empire state, has been for something cheap, something for nothing. Investors have been learning several lessons in petty financiering of late, which should redound to their lasting benefit, and eliminate securities of the above class from the offerings to the public.

"In Frisco parlance, prices this week have 'shunt the chute.' Argentum Acla; Silver State, Work, Union, Alamo and Columbine Gold plunged downward. Jefferson was strong and in demand.

New York and Cripple Creek received much attention early in the week, but closed weak. There was an urgent demand for Columbine-Victor Tunnel on the home as well as Cripple Creek and Victor exchanges, with hardly a share in sight.

"The present lull will give place to another season of activity in the better class of stocks, even greater than we have yet experienced, we predict. We have tab on several rich finds in various parts of the district, which will stimulate trading in stocks now [illegible] and the number of new shippers will receive several additions the next few weeks.

W. P. Bonbright & Co. say: "This year promises to be one of extraordinary activity in the mining market. Cripple Creek stocks are worthily popular and should greatly advance. Never has high-grade gold-ore been known to be so generally disseminated over so wide an area—hence the number of mines already paying is unprecedented and promises to become phenomenal.

"Under these unique conditions the risk to capital in legitimate and well-managed companies is probably greater than that required in nine-tenths of the mercantile and industrial concerns, where the profits are comparatively nominal. We are convinced of the truth of these statements, and urge them repeatedly upon those who habitually take business risks. But mining speculations have a peculiar fascination for the large class of persons who should incur no greater financial risk than attends a good bond or mortgage. We are receiving an increasing number of letters from this class of investors, who, living at a distance and relying principally upon the newspaper reports, are at a great disadvantage: to them we feel constrained to say 'don't put your savings into stocks.' Here, while the rush is all toward mining, there are best mortgages to be had bearing 6 per cent., and also advancing income-earning property.

"We apprehend this advice will go the way of most advice; nevertheless, we must have the satisfaction of writing the caution.

"The market has been unusually devoid of interesting features, prices, without any noteworthy exceptions, showing a tendency to remain stationary—in some cases, to recede; trading has been less active than for several weeks.

"So soon as the present wide-spread uneasiness caused by the treasury's difficulties and by the thread-bare 'war-scare' subsides, we may look for another and a greater advance. Meanwhile we should congratulate ourselves that our market has probably been less injuriously affected by the prevailing political and monetary troubles than any other, either in this country or abroad."

Messrs. Carnduff & Rusch in their weekly letter say: "Until the pending national bond issue is definitely settled, we do not anticipate any increased activity in our mining market. That prices have receded so little notwithstanding the heavy pressure brought to bear upon them, speaks well for the stability of our stocks and the improving condition of the mines.

"The cheap stocks have not recovered and are not likely to show much activity until more interest is manifested in their higher priced leaders. Prospecting is being actively pushed on the outlying district and strikes in new localities are being made almost daily.

"The Aspen silvers have been quiet but an advance may be expected in A. J. The condition of the mine has greatly improved and the company is likely once more to come to the front as a dividend payer."

Raymond Reed & Co. say: "The market continues to be less active than it was a month ago, but we consider the tone healthy, as the most of the trading is in stocks of known merit that have patented properties and that are developing their properties. Without an occasional 'slump' the market would partake of the character of a 'boom' and prices would become inflated. This is a condition that is not desired by any of the mining men of Cripple Creek who have the welfare of the district at heart.

"An enormous amount of prospecting in new territory is being done at Cripple Creek, and this will ultimately prove of great benefit, as it will surely disclose the existence of mineral throughout a much wider area than is now known. However, investors who buy stocks in companies whose properties are located outside of the known mineral belt should bear in mind that their investments are purely speculative. It is the safest plan to invest in the stocks of companies whose properties are located strictly in the mineral belt, and whose titles are secure. Many of the properties that are in the central part of the producing area have as yet not produced ore, but with continued development the chances for such prospects becoming mines are very good. Patented ground centrally located on the best mountains, is worth from $2500 to $5000 per acre, even if mineral has not been disclosed; and is of course much more valuable after ore has been discovered. We think this a fair basis for computing the value of stocks.

"The dullness of the stock market has not affected the sales of mines and prospects. More sales of lode claims have been made in Cripple Creek in the last month than in any previous months in the camp's history."

Clarence Edsall & Co. say: "During the last week the Exchange has added twenty-five active members to its list by a defection from the ranks of the Board of Trade of this city. For the past year it has been known that business could be increased and a broader market made by the consolidation of the two principal exchanges in the city, but heretofore all efforts with this object in view have been fruitless. The membership has now reached a total of eighty-eight, and the market is much broader and the facilities for the sale and purchase of all stocks are greatly increased. A total of $15,000 was the price paid for the seats of the new members, which will give the Exchange nearly $35,000 in its treasury.

"The report issued by the Isabella company at its annual meeting this week is of special interest. We have been informed by a director of the company that the February dividend of one cent a share will be paid.

"The interest in the camp seems to be centered in the Gillett territory, and especially around the Lincoln mine.

"Pirate, Wheel of Fortune, Henrietta and Vanity Fair have all been heavy sellers. Work on the Pirate property is being vigorously pushed, and application for patent will soon be made. On the Grand Central No. 4 of the Pirate company a well-defined vein averaging two feet has been opened up at a depth of forty feet.

"From the sale of treasury stock, the Hayden company has recently received about $25,000, making a total of about $60,000 in the treasury."

Expanding the Territory.

"The recent strike in the Lincoln," said a well known mining engineer, "is of much greater importance than is generally understood, even in Cripple Creek. The Lincoln is nearly three miles north of any previous shipper in the district, but the entire region from the producing mines to and beyond the Lincoln is interspersed with highly mineralized phonolite dykes which have been heretofore but imperfectly and generally not intelligently prospected. The Lincoln is steadily shipping, though on account of lack of development up to the present time the shipments have not been very heavy. A sample taken across the dump of the King of Diamonds, near the Lincoln, of material which had been overlooked and not tested, gave a return of $47 to the ton and two cars will be immediately shipped as a test.

"The large area of ground opened up by the Lincoln strike is about four miles long by two wide, and possibly larger, and prospecting, especially along the contact between these phonolite dykes and the country rock should be vigorously prosecuted. In view of this enlargement of the Cripple Creek district, the strike while not large, is more significant than anything that has happened in Cripple Creek for the past two years, and I confidently expect that it is but the forerunner of much important development of what has heretofore been considered as virgin ground."

Too Many Companies.

Colonel Brown, president of the Cripple Creek Mining Exchange, was a visitor at the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon. He was called to the front and in response to vociferous demands for a speech said that there was only one thing he had to say regarding the exchange business and that was that he believed altogether too many stocks are called on the Colorado exchanges. There are more Cripple Creek companies organized than there is ground for them to operate on. Colonel Brown said he was a pioneer in Cripple Creek and considered himself pretty well acquainted with the district, but that he did not know one-third of the companies that were called at Leadville. This is a matter that should be looked to by the exchange.

A new organization is the Alhambra Gold Mining and Developing company, with a capital of 1,250,000 shares, of which 200,000 shares and about $400 are in the treasury. The officers are: Matt France, president; M. Parsons, secretary. Owns, Ora Earl, situated on Bull Hill, between Sacramento and Orpha May; Alemeda and Alemeda No. 2; Washington group, Nos. 6, 7, 9, 10 and 11, situated on Big Bull hill. Patents applied for on six claims.

MINES, STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS.

Colo. Spgs. Board of Trade and Mining Exchange

Reported by........ ....S. F. HAZLEHURST

First Call.

Colorado Springs, Jan. 27.—Transfers of large blocks of new miscellaneous stocks ran up an immense total sales at the Board of Trade this morning, in spite of the fact that there were less than 40,000 shares of listed stocks sold. Isabella was the most prominently active on the list with 5000 sales in the neighborhood of 56½, but Pappoose exceeded in point of sales, 9000 changing hands at 8¼ and 8⅜. Garfield Grouse sold 2000 at 7¼ and Trachyte and Virginia M each 3000, the former going at 4 and the latter at 2⅝. The heavy sellers among the miscellaneous stocks were Tipton with 400,000 at from $9 $9 per 1000, Alhambra 400,000 at $5 per 1000, Corinne $9 50 to $10 per 1000. Hayden sold 4000 at 10¼, and 4000 at 10½.

Second Call.

It was a jubilant herd of dancing bears and cavorting bulls that crowded the pit this afternoon. President Gowdy opened proceedings by announcing the new members of the board. Three cheers and a tiger followed for the Board of Trade. The call was then opened and bidding was very lively until the close, with a large number of sales. A block of 1000 Bankers at 20 started the list, and was followed by 5000 Trachyte at 4½, another 5000 later in the afternoon went at 4¼. Pappoose was again very lively with a total of 14,500 shares, most of which went at 8½. Ben Hur also was very lively with 12,500 shares at 8¾ and 8½, closing at [illegible] bid. Bidding was lively on Golden Age and resulted in sales of 2000 shares at 3⅝ and 3¾. Pharmacist sold 4500 at 18 and Mollie Gibson went at 50 and 49¾, 2000 shares at the former and 500 at 49¾. In the miscellaneous list St Louis Tunnel was very lively, 27,000 shares selling, mainly at 5½. Golden Treasure scored 26,000 at about 1½ and Mohawk 10,000 at 3 to 4.

A two-year's lease has been given to the Financial company, on the Gladstone lode, on Globe hill, belonging to the Golden Hope company. One of the conditions of the lease is that the shaft shall be put down to a depth of 300 feet and with this end in view the Financial company will place a steam hoist on the property. Some very good ore has been found at different times on the Gladstone, but the formation is badly broken up and the 300-foot shaft is likely to be a very good thing to develop the property.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT STEP.

The Board of Trade and Consolidated Exchanges Consolidate.

A further most important step on the part of the brokers of this city was made yesterday when the members of the Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange and the Consolidated Mining Stock Exchange decided to consolidate their interests.

The consolidation was brought about by meetings which were held by the directors of both boards and as all concerned were interested in seeing it consummated matters of triviality were waived and it was not long before it was decided upon, the Board of Trade increasing its membership to 200. As the case stands now the officers on both exchanges have resigned and a committee of two from each exchange will meet to nominate candidates for election in the various offices.

It is understood that the consolidated body will be known as the Colorado Springs Board of Trade and Mining Exchange, but it is not improbable that the word Consolidated will be inserted instead of "and."

Business will be transacted this morning at the Consolidated headquarters, where it will continue to be done until the new room now building in the Open Board quarters is finished. This will be a matter of a week or ten days. Whether or no the members will be permitted to join the Open Board and trade at night has not yet been decided upon though it is understood that the matter will be brought forward for consideration.

The membership is now about 30 short of the required number, but these seats are now in the hands of those members who recently joined the old exchange. They are said to be in good demand and selling for about $150.

TARIFF BILL FOR REVENUE.

Prospect That the Bill Will Pass the Senate.

POLICY OF THE SILVER LEADERS.

Curiosity as to What Mr. Cleveland Will Do With It When the Time Comes For Action—Rivalry In Matters of Economy.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 [Special] There is now some prospect that the emergency tariff or revenue bill will pass the senate. It is said the silver senators from the far western states have about decided to let the measure go through that body after a time, or as soon as they have accomplished the purpose which they had in view when they first blocked the way. That purpose was, oddly enough, to damage the prospects of the very party to which they belong and to put the Republican leaders in a state of mind where they would be more anxious to extend the olive branch to the silver wing of the party in the St Louis convention While this is the avowed and peculiar policy of the silver Republicans, they do not want to carry the thing too far. They were anxious to restore a sort of equilibrium between the two great parties, so that they could have a better chance for recognition in the national platform and nominations, but they did not wish to spill all the milk.

Needs of the Treasury.

In case the tariff measure goes through without a free silver rider, as there is to day some prospect that it will within a few weeks, the curiosity as to what Mr. Cleveland will do with it becomes very great. It was some time ago announced, apparently by authority, that the president would veto it, but it is now believed he would hesitate a long time before adopting such an extreme course The president and secretary of the treasury have both said in their communications to congress that the trouble which the government is now having is not a revenue trouble This may be true as to the maintenance of the gold reserve, but I have talked with a number of minor treasury officials, and those men say the treasury does need more income. Those officials are men without political bias. They are the experts of the great department. They are as much devoted to their tasks as bank officers, rail way managers and life insurance officials are to their work. All these experts of the treasury tell me the same thing They say they have had to "turn corners" during the last two or three years in order to keep up appearances in the treasury. They have been short of money, and they need just about the $40,000,000 which it is supposed the emergency revenue bill would give them.

Speaker Reed's Policy.

Between the two ends of the avenue, as we in Washington term the capitol and the White House, there is growing up considerable rivalry in the economy line Speaker Reed long ago announced his policy of economical expenditures. He did not propose that the stigma of a billion dollar spendthrift congress should be hurled at him this time He chose Mr. Cannon for chairman of the committee on appropriations because of Mr. Cannon's well known ability to keep down expenditures, and Chairman Cannon shows us that he knows what is expected of him when he says, "My business is not to make appropriations, but to prevent them." Now Mr. Cleveland is doing some talking on the economy line too To a number of his callers the president has complained of what he termed the evident tendency in congress to squander the public funds. He said congress would have to pull up short or there would soon be a deficiency. Of course the president thinks his political opponents at the capitol are trying to force him to sign their bill providing for an increase of revenue in case that measure gets through the senate, but to an outsider the extravagance is more imaginary than real.

When the president's complaints about extravagance in congress were reported to Speaker Reed, the latter asked if Mr. Cleveland had withdrawn his request, made through Secretary Herbert, for appropriations for six new battleships, to cost about $3,000,000 each. When the answer was made, "No, the administration is still asking us for that money," the speaker simply smiled.

It is true the president would like to have congress authorize the construction of six new battleships, and a lot of torpedo boats too. There are other things that the executive wants and which public opinion would be likely to indorse. For these reasons it is not believed the appropriations for the coming fiscal year can be cut much below those of past years, if any. It should not be forgotten that the country is growing all the time and the government machine has to grow with it.

An Important Inquiry.

The ways and means committee is about to take up a most interesting and important inquiry. It is to investigate the workings of the reciprocity agreements which were concluded by the United States with various other American countries under the McKinley act, and which fell to pieces when section three of that act was repealed in 1894. It is proposed to have manufacturers and exporters come to Washington and give evidence from their books, it being facts and not simply arguments that the committee wants. There is in congress a strong feeling in favor of revival of reciprocity, and it will not be difficult to push through a measure looking to that end. It is well known that a number of the diplomatic representatives of Central and South American countries stationed here have said their governments would be willing to enter into new treaties, though they want the subject approached this time more on a mutual basis. When the former treaties were negotiated, the United States virtually held a club over the heads of those countries and said to them, "Come in and make these arrangements with us, or we will injure your trade." The foreigners say that is not the true way to go at reciprocity. It is not the way to make a reciprocity treaty strong and lasting They would like to be invited to a convention called in Washington for the purpose of considering the whole question of American trade and reciprocal arrangements, and I should not be surprised if this were in time to be the outcome of the matter.

It has been suggested that one outgrowth of all this agitation of the Monroe doctrine should be a comprehensive arrangement by which the American nations league themselves together for the purpose of keeping trade in this hemisphere That would be the best sort of a Monroe doctrine for the people of the United States, who seem to be anxious not only to hold their own market, but to gain access to foreign markets as rapidly as possible

A NEW COUNTY BUILDING

The Gazette presents to its readers this morning one of the most important projects which have ever been offered for public consideration in this county.

The need of a new court house and county building has been manifest for a long time. The present county offices are entirely inadequate for the accommodation of the force necessary to carry on the public business. They are poorly lighted, and poorly ventilated. The court rooms are not commodious. The county records are not safe from fire. It is imperative that the county commissioners should consider at once the ways and means of putting up a county building which shall be a credit to El Paso and in which the courts and all the county officers shall have ample and suitable accommodations.

Hitherto the great difficulty in the way of putting up a proper county building has been the want of a good site. The quarter block on which the present county building stands is well located, and is valuable property, but it is surrounded by other buildings on two sides and it would not be a sightly place upon which to erect a fine building.

It has often been proposed to locate the county building in the south park, and overtures have been made with that end in view; but up to this time the Colorado Springs company, which originally gave the land for the south park, has not thought it best that any buildings whatever should be put up on that ground. Now, however, a proposition is on foot, the details of which are given in our news columns, which will allow the building to be put up in the south park, and in return, the property now owned by the county, and on which the present county buildings stand is to be sold, and the proceeds held for a park fund for the city.

It would be a great advantage to the south end of the city to have a fine county building in the south park. It would inevitably raise the value of property in the neighborhood, especially of property suitable for business purposes. The building would be an ornament to the park, and would occupy only a very small part of the space now included in the park; and it might be made a condition of the gift that the county should maintain the park in good condition.

As for the proposed park fund the expenditure of that could be entrusted to a park commission, or the City Council might undertake it. In any event, we might be sure, if public sentiment is what it ought to be, that it would be expended wisely and for the best interests of the city.

The county commissioners do not wish to take decisive action in a matter of such vital importance without ascertaining the state of public opinion in regard to the project. They prefer to hear what is to be said about it, by all persons interested.

We shall be glad to print in The Gazette expressions of opinion either favorable or unfavorable, in regard to the proposition, so that the commissioners may know how public opinion stands in regard to it. Our own opinion is that the general proposition is a good one, and offers to the county the very best site in town for its building, at a comparatively small cost. The county will gain a first-rate site for a comparatively poor one. The city will gain a good sum of money toward a park fund. The south end of the city will be greatly benefitted. The south park will not be at all injured. All that remains to make the project successful, if the Colorado Springs company gives its consent, and the City Council is willing, is that it be carried out wisely, and that the details be perfected so as to be entirely satisfactory. On those points we think the county commissioners and the City Council may safely be trusted to see to it that the public interests are completely guarded.

The matter is not decided at all—in fact, no formal proposition has yet been made to the city or the Colorado Springs company; but there is some reason to believe that the company will consider the matter favorably, especially if the property owners near the south park show a decided interest in the plan. We sincerely hope it may be successfully negotiated, for we believe it would be a good thing for all parties concerned.

CONSOLIDATION.

The Gazette has all along been in favor of the consolidation of the numerous exchanges in this city, and has not hesitated to express its opinion. It has seemed to us that all the legitimate business could be transacted in two exchanges better than in five, and we are therefore glad to announce this morning that the Consolidated has united with the Board of Trade on terms favorable to both. The suspension of the Open Board of Brokers leaves only one night exchange, so that now we have in the city only three exchanges altogether.

We congratulate both the Board of Trade and the Consolidated on the new move. It will make one strong exchange, for which there is room. The Mining Stock association is conducting its business on the most conservative lines and while this movement lasts—and it may last a long time yet—there may very properly be another exchange in which the lines are not drawn so closely as they are in the old exchange. If the management of the newly constituted Board of Trade is wise, it will surround its sales with as good safeguards as possible, and we have no doubt that its listed stocks will afford a guaranty to the purchaser that he is getting something worth while when he buys.

To a thoughtless outsider, it might appear from the lessening of the number of exchanges in this city that the mining stock business was running down—that the craze was running out. From our point of view the consolidation is simply a strengthening of the market and the best step possible toward placing it on a permanent basis. This paper has been working all along for the permanent interests of the mining stock business rather than for any temporary boom. A boom is bound not to last and the collapse which always comes sooner or later from a boom does more harm than the inflation does good. We have not wanted a boom and we have thought that the temporary lulls in the market which have occurred from time to time were good things, in that they toned down whatever fever might have afflicted the public as a patient and restored us to normal conditions.

Instead of being a retrograde movement, therefore, we consider this consolidation as a big step in advance. We believe it will have a good effect, probably at once, certainly in the long run.

BRAKES ON BICYCLES.

A great rumpus has been stirred up in New York by the introduction of a resolution in the board of aldermen, making it compulsory, under penalty of a fine, for everybody who rides a bicycle within the city limits to use a brake. So far as we can discover from the papers, the sentiment of the older and slower riders, who do not want either to scorch or to be scorched, is in favor of the proposed ordinance, while young America is all against it. The experts allege that a brake is an entirely unnecessary addition to the wheel, and that anybody who knows how to ride can get along better without it. They say further, that there is more real danger from a hasty and unnecessary use of the brake than there is from its absence.

There is something to be said on both sides of this, as of most other questions. Some people cannot coast safely without a brake, and on the other hand, some cannot coast safely with it; but in New York we suppose that coasting is not allowed at least not in Wall and Broad streets and lower Broadway. In a town like this, where the streets are so level and so broad, there is very little use for a brake, and our city council is not likely, we think, to take the matter up as it has been taken up in New York. A very effectual brake can be made with the toe of one foot if a rider is going so fast that he cannot easily check his speed by back-pedalling a little, that is if the toe be not too pointed. Another way of stopping sudddenly that is practised a great deal in the first stages of the bicycle fever is to get off, or fall off, when any danger appears to be approaching, but everybody in this city may be supposed to have got past that point. On the whole, we think the best plan is for each rider to consult his or her own taste and fancy in the matter, and use a brake or not, as it appears necessary.

The death of Prince Henry of Battenberg seems to have caused a great deal of sincere mourning in Great Britain more, however, because of the stop it puts to court and society "functions" than from any personal grief for the loss of the man. It was certainly very inconsiderate of the Prince to die at a time when there was a prospect of so much gayety.

The Maryland deadlock has been happily ended by the election of George L. Wellington as a United States Senator from that State, and he is probably taking his seat as this is written. Mr. Wellington's autobiography in the Congressional Record informs us that he was born in Cumberland on Jan 28, 1852, that he attended a German school for a brief period, but is otherwise self-educated, that he served for a time as clerk in a bank, and later as teller; that he has served as county treasurer several times, and been more or less active in politics for a dozen years, and finally, that he was elected as a representative in Congress from the Sixth district of Maryland last fall, after a previous unsuccessful effort. There is a tradition in Maryland—indeed we are not sure but there is a law on the subject that one of the Senators from that State shall always come from the eastern shore. In this case, the tradition is broken; but we do not see how it can effect Mr. Wellington's title to his seat. We are glad the Republicans in the Maryland legislature have succeeded in electing so able a man, and we recommend their example to the Republicans in the legislature of Kentucky.

We note in a Philadelphia paper an announcement that the friends of Pattison not P. K., but Robert E. are going to present his name to the next Democratic national convention as a suitable nominee for the Presidency. If they could guarantee that his own State will not beat him by more than 100,000 votes, they might have some chance, as it is, we do not think Mr. Pattison will prove a formidable obstacle in Mr. Cleveland's path.

We have received from the publishers a little booklet called "Statesmen Three," written by Archie Fisk. It seems to be an attempt to do something like "Coin's Financial School." It is hardly likely to be successful, for it has a portrait of the distinguished author for a frontispiece.

There was a bigger protest in Europe over the original announcement of the Monroe doctrine than there has been over President's Cleveland's reinforcement of it. But it "went," just the same.

Another paper has been started in Cripple Creek—we cannot call it a newspaper. It may last for a month or two.

There is a paper called The National Bimetallist published in Chicago, which it would pay the friends of the silver cause to suppress.

Hold the Convention Here!

To the Editor of The Gazette

Dear Sir—In Friday morning's issue of your paper an editorial appeared that struck me as being so pre-eminently worthy of notice and of being emphasized and re-echoed by our citizens.

I refer to your editorial in regard to holding the next State Republican convention in this city. I love and am proud of our State capital—Denver, and its citizens so many of whom especially among the old timers, are my warm personal friends, but as you suggest, in your timely article, no man can tell which of the innumerable "functions" in that city, reflects or truly represents the Republican party or its principles.

Of places, Denver should be the last thought of in which to hold our next convention, not only for reasons assigned in your article but for many others that might be given.

Genuine old-time Republicanism can be sniffed in the air, even at this early day in the year of our Lord 1896 and if we can bring our Republican friends with all their "factions" from Denver, into the State convention, in this city we will set them such an example of unity and Republican enthusiasm as will do them good and maybe make them ashamed of their disgraceful factional fights and of their old-time tricks and attempts at convention "set-ups." Let our State Central committee call the convention to meet in Colorado Springs, at the proper time, and the best interest of the party will be subserved, is the judgment of your humble subscriber.

REUBEN BERREY

To Alfred Austin, "Poet."

Wrong? Were you wrong? Well, maybe! But you wrote the thing just the same, and if you are not a gaby, you have advertised well your name. They may argue and laugh and snicker, and seem to be highly elate; but however they sneer or bicker you are still poet laureate. No matter what bosh you may utter; no matter what stuff you may print; what if your muse seems to stutter, you can do as you please without stint. Let all other poets hobble the feet of their overlooked muse. You still will continue to wobble in poor Alfred Tennyson's shoes!

Your warrant is signed and official. You're England's chief poet to-day, and your laureate's poem, initial, was copied from Rome to Bombay. No matter how weak or how mushy, how verdant or how under-ripe, its sentiments sickly and slushy were everywhere set up in type. While other young poets may wonder however they can win success, your words rattle out like the thunder and your salary ne'er will be less. Let poets their tempers all ruffle with fits of despair or the blues. You still will continue to shuffle around in poor Tennyson's shoes.

Then sing on sweet Alfred forever. In verse Austin-tatiously bad. Your rivals, poor creatures, can never, attain to the fame you have had. Sing songs about Jameson's foray, sing praise of a highwayman's feat; and the people will call out "hip, hooray!" and your triumph will be most complete. No matter how rhythm or metre, may seem to be crippled or lame. The poem will sound all the sweeter. You'll be laureate, still, just the same. While other poor poets must scramble in pain up the hill of the muse, you carelessly, aimlessly amble, secure in poor Tennyson's shoes.

No envy your future can shatter, no spite your sweet life can annoy. You can sniff in disdain at life's clatter and spend your existence in joy. Let others breast literature's torrent in search of the work that endures. Your legal, official great warrant, your rank—for all ages secures. Whatever you write must be taken as all that is finest in verse, for your government's verdict's unshaken. To doubt it than treason were worse. Let Swinburne deride you. No matter. Let Morris feel robbed of his dues. You still will continue to clatter around in poor Tennyson's shoes!—(Boston Advertiser.

Mr. Bayard's Self-Vindication.

The American Ambassador to England uses his pen with better effect than his tongue. He made last year some speeches which caused the judicious to grieve. Now he writes a letter to explain them—so far as explanation seems to him necessary or possible. The latter is by far the better work. It will not, as those of little faith might have feared, add to the poignancy of the grief which the former caused. It will rather soothe it, by virtue of its cogent loic and convincing, if placid, philosophy. Upon a diplomat playing the demagogue it was impossible to look without reprobation and regret. Upon an airy and graceful philosopher assuming the solemn gravity of a mountebank it is easy to look with a complacent grin. (New York Tribune.

SPAIN'S RULE OF CUBA

This Country May End It In a Few Months.

THE QUESTION OF RECOGNITION.

It Lies With the Executive and Not With Congress Spain to Be Given More Time to Restore Order on the Island—Effect of the Recall of Campos.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25. [Special] To-day the cause of free Cuba is attracting more attention at this capital than any of our domestic affairs There is no longer any doubt that congress will pass the resolution expressing sympathy with the insurgents who are struggling in that island for free government and requesting the president to grant belligerent rights as soon as he finds he can properly do so There is a very strong feeling in congress among men of all political parties in favor of Cuba, but the leaders of legislative action know that the right to extend recognition lies with the executive and not with congress The supreme court has held on various occasions that a state of war is not officially recognized until the president's proclamation to that effect is issued, no matter what congress may have done meanwhile. It is believed by those who are in closest touch with the administration that President Cleveland will ultimately take decisive action in favor of peace in Cuba, and that when he does get ready to move Spain's rule in the island will soon come to an end.

The Question of Belligerency.

"I have had a very full talk with Secretary Olney on this question," said a member of the foreign affairs committee today "and while I am not at liberty to disclose all the secretary said I have no hesitation in saying that when the proper time arrives President Cleveland will move The secretary says he has given careful study to the question of recognition and cannot find anything to recognize He takes the view that one nation recognizes a state of war in another country not for the benefit of the revolutionists in that country, nor through sentimental considerations, but wholly for the protection and advantage of the citizens of the country according the recognition. If belligerency is recognized, the warships of Spain will have the right under international law to detain all American ships on the high seas and search them. If contraband of war be found on board, these vessels may be seized and carried off to prize courts This would work to the disadvantage of the subjects of the United States and lead to a great deal of trouble. It would operate against the insurgents, too, for as matters now stand the Spanish navy has the right to seize vessels only within the distance of three leagues of the Cuban coast

"If the war is to be continued, the insurgents must continue to receive their supplies of ammunition from this or other countries. Up to this time they have had little difficulty in landing their shipments While on the high seas they are free from search or seizure. Approaching the Cuban coast in the night, they watch their chance in the darkness to steal in and land their shipments. So far, it is said, not a single shipment of ammunition has been seized by the Spanish gunboats. How would it be if the Spanish vessels had the right to make seizures on the high seas? Then all the Spanish authorities would have to do would be to employ detectives to ascertain on what vessels guns or cartridges were shipped, and by giving the word to their cruisers they could overhaul and search such vessels as soon as they sailed out of the jurisdiction of the United States.

Spain to Be Given More Time.

"There are many other considerations which induce the president and Secretary Olney to withhold recognition," continued this representative "They take the same ground that General Grant and his secretary of state, Mr Fish, took in 1875, when recognition was denied to Cuba after ten years' war [illegible] on some six or eight years. This was that the revolutionists had control of no ports and did not have a settled seat of government; that they had no regular communication with the outer world, and if called upon to assume responsibility to other nations under international law there was no method of reaching them or finding the responsible parties. While there is a great deal of pressure in congress for action that will help Cuba, all that congress can do, in my judgment, is to express its sympathy by means of a concurrent resolution.

"In my talk with Secretary Olney I became satisfied that the president has intimated to the Spanish government that it may have this winter in which to restore order in Cuba, and that if it fails then it must except intervention by the United States. In Cuba, you know, the only season of the year in which military operations can be carried on is between November and June. In the rainy season the roads in the interior are impassable. Last fall, when there was so much talk of intervention by this country, the Spanish minister had a long talk with Secretary Olney and said Spain would crush the rebellion within three months after the roads became passable. Then it was Secretary Olney intimated to the Spanish government the need of its suppressing the revolt during the winter months. This is well understood in Havana, I have every reason to believe, and this accounts for the recent change of policy and the dismissal of General Martinez Campos."

What Is Likely to Happen.

I am able to add here an explanation of the situation in Cuba given me by Dr. Rodriguez, an educated and conservative Cuban who is attached to the bureau of American republics in this city. Dr. Rodriguez belongs to the autonomist or home rule party in Cuba. This party comprises nearly all of the Cubans of wealth and character. Their policy has been to achieve home rule by political agitation and not by the sword. When the revolution broke out, they counseled against it. With some exceptions they have stood out against revolution by force and have adhered to their allegiance to the government They have done so only because General Campos has pursued a mild and conciliatory policy He has endeavored to protect the property of the planters and hold them fast in their loyalty General Campos has realized that if the autonomists join the revolutionary party and take to the sword that will be the last of Spanish rule in the island

This, it is believed, is what is likely to happen next The recall of General Campos and placing of the command in the hands of General Weyler indicate a policy of harshness and severity, even if not one of cruelty Probably this will drive the home rulers into active participation with the insurgents If it does, Cuba will be free.

ADVERTISING AXIOMS

The duller the season the more need there is of advertising, and of good advertising at that

Never sit down to write an ad until you have thoroughly thought out the subject and know exactly what you wish to say.

No newspaper reader will ever believe a "selling out below cost" announcement unless adequate reasons for the sacrifice are given

Sincerity in an advertisement is the condiment which frequently makes an otherwise unattractive "business literary" dose palatable.

AT LAST IT IS HERE.

BUT THE TRILBY COAT WAS A LONG TIME COMING.

Possibly This May Be Because It Is Not an Altogether Lovely Coat—Handsome Evening Gowns Fans, Furs and Feathers—New Evening Wraps.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. It is rather late in the day to bring out the Trilby coat, but it is here, and already the bedizened epaulets are seen in the streets, worn by those who like to be first in everything. The Trilby coat differs from other coats only in the matter of collar, military epaulets and buttons. These give a very square effect to the shoulders, and they strike one with quite a shock of surprise at first, and not a pleasurable shock either, but we shall soon become so familiar with Trilby coats that we will scarcely notice them. I do not marvel after the popularity of the book and play that there should be a Trilby coat, but why it was so long coming is what puzzles me.

HOME OR VISITING GOWNS.

Perhaps we were just drifting that way anyhow, for I have noticed many attempts at epaulets of other kinds. One fancy has been to have slashed berthas of different materials, notably of stiff gold or silver embroidery on white cloth, silk, satin or velvet. When these are laid over the shoulders, the slashed portions resemble epaulets.

I saw one gown of bottle green velvet where there was such a bertha done in gold on old rose satin. The skirt of the dress was plainly gored. The waist was snug and was finished at the bottom by a simple piping. The upper part of the waist was gathered into a yoke, and below this the bertha was set. The sleeves were balloon puffs, the forearm pieces being of the old rose satin, while the upper part was of the velvet. The combination was very rich, and the old rose showing between the golden threads was a happy thought on the part of the designer, for green and yellow make a very ugly combination, but one that has had quite a vogue this winter.

Very few of the berthas have been just berthas without suggesting anything else, but there was one very quaint gown with a real genuine bertha that did not try to be anything else. I must begin with the waist. This was of Persian brocade so far as the upper part and sleeves were concerned. The lower portion was of silver gray corded silk, made in a point and with a basque around the bottom, not quite meeting in front and finished with two silver buttons on each side. The corsage opened to show the under part, and the bertha fell over the bust and shoulders from an overturned seam. It was bordered with fur and was very effective and handsome. The skirt was bordered with fur, and altogether the gown was worthy of imitation, which we all know is the surest proof of our admiration.

The liberty velvets are wonderfully pretty. They are printed in Persian patterns and other odd designs. There are also many styles of silk with velvet stripes between the delicate and vaporous cheney patterns. These materials are mostly used as trimmings or combinations with the soft new woolens and silky zibelines. Velvet is used this season to a very unusual extent, and whole gowns and entire suits of it are often seen, though never common. Velvet sleeves are used in basques and coats, and on some of the prettiest and most filmy of light evening dresses there are arrangements of black or very dark velvet, which, while they form a very striking contrast, are still very taking.

Some of the handsomest evening gowns for both young and old have Louis XVI coats of pompadour peking stripes, with black velvet cuffs, revers and lapels, with great silver buttons and much fine lace for ornament. These coats are cut square in the neck in the old and popular pompadour design. A few have the always dainty Marie Antoinette fichu of sheerest lawn or lisse. When these coats are made of black velvet and the cuffs and other trimmable parts are covered with gold or silver embroidery, the effect is rich beyond description. Some of these coats are cut V shaped and some heart shaped in the neck, but they are quite high in the back all of them. It all depends upon the trimming and the question of the cut in the neck with these coats. They are made for receptions, for teas, a few for street and many for swell evening functions. They are handsome whatever they are for or wherever worn. A Louis XVI coat of puce colored velvet, with bavarian green vest and facings, was much admired at a swell tea yesterday. It needs one of the dainty little empire fans to make a coat costume complete. There are tiny black lace fans, with gleaming spangles, or old fashioned white feather fans, with marabout plumes along the edges, looking like a row of dandelion puffs. These have carved ivory or silver sticks. There are some very large fans of rich ostrich plumes, but the most of them are very small.

THE LATEST IN FURS.

When one carries such a fan as one of these, one is apt to be so appareled as to require an evening wrap. The latest of these necessary garments are undeniably handsome. One was a pointed cape of silvery tibet, with an inset of mink on the shoulder, the dark fur contrasting vividly with the white. An enormous collar seemed to delight in hugging up close to the pretty face of the owner. The other was a long cloak of sulphur colored reps, with a slashed epaulet cape of tibet over the shoulder. The sprung collar was lined with tibet. In both back and front there was a gold beaded cord and tassels.

Over one dainty cloak of white cashmere, trimmed with a light silver embroidery, was worn a collarette of Hudson bay sable, with long points, which hung down over the white very effectively.

OLIVE HARPER.

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

Interview With His Early Schoolteacher, Colonel N. W. Fitzgerald.

[Special Correspondence.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 21. Colonel Nat Ward Fitzgerald, while in a reminiscent mood recently, told a story of his favorite pupils, one of whom has since become famous as a poet and is none other than James Whitcomb Riley; the other, the sweetheart of Riley's youth, Lizzie McGregor.

"About three decades ago," said the colonel, "I was a pedagogue in an obscure Indiana town. One of my favorite pupils was a yellow haired, unkempt, untidy, uncultivated lad of 16 years, whom I enrolled as James Riley. He was commonly known as Jim. Backward in all his studies, not caring for his books, he spent all his time in making caricatures of myself and his classmates. Many a time have I intercepted slips passed round depicting some occurrence in the schoolroom and always knew where to place them. As far as study was concerned, he was the drone. He would play truant two days out of the week, going down to old Kingsey's mills, on the Brandywine, which he has since immortalized in verse, making such ludicrous excuses on his return I could not help overlooking his fault.

"To tell the truth, he was such a jolly, good natured, happy go lucky sort of boy I had a sneaking affection for him, realizing his faults, yet never feeling inclined to punish him. But I was not the only one who had a fancy for Jim. Sweet little Lizzie McGregor was my rival and 'Jim's sweetheart,' as the boys expressed it. She was a pretty little blond, with big blue eyes and fine features. I can see them now, going down the lane hand in hand as soon as they felt they were out of sight. Lizzie was an orphan, and there is no question as to Jim's affection for her.

"At the close of the school year his mother died. That was the only thing that seemed to seriously affect Jim. It broke up his home. His father was a lawyer, hard, stern and uncompromising, with no sympathy for the boy. He lavished all his affection on John, the oldest son, who became a telegraph operator.

COLONEL N. W. FITZGERALD.

"Then Lizzie McGregor died, and this broke Jim up completely, and he left the town. The next heard of him he had become an apprentice to a sign painter.

"In six weeks he could teach the sign painter, and concluded to start out on his own account, becoming a tramp painter and going from town to town. But money did not come fast enough, so one day, while lying under a tree with his dog, a boy came along who was tramping it like himself. A happy thought struck Jim.

"He got the boy to lead him into the town as a blind sign painter, and astounded the people with his work. That finally came to an end, and he next appeared as a reporter at the office of the Kokomo Tribune. His subsequent career is well known to the public."

Presently, as if awakening from a reverie, the colonel spoke again:

"Yes, 'That Old Sweetheart of Mine' I guess is my favorite, and 'Out to Old Aunt Mary's,' 'Old Kingsey's Mill' and others recall the places and my favorite pupils of the long ago. I little dreamed then that Jim, whose shortcomings I continually overlooked, would one day 'hitch his wagon to a star.'

"I saw him a few years ago. The unkempt boy was transformed into an up to date gentleman as far as appearance went, but the boyish fondness for his old preceptor still remained, and I feel that if I never achieved anything else of moment the reflected luster of the fame of my favorite pupil ought to satisfy me.

"I do not know what made me fancy him then, unless it was his fun loving nature and his general uncared for condition."

Colonel Fitzgerald numbers many prominent people among his friends, and as a lecturer and lawyer has attained distinction.

HOW TO KEEP SCRAPS

PLEASURE AND PROFIT IN CAREFUL AND SYSTEMATIC WORK.

But It Must Be Followed Regularly and Persistently—Random Items May Be Interesting, but Not Valuable—Practical Hints by an Adept.

[Special Correspondence.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 20. Few persons who are not collectors realize the pleasure and profit to be obtained by keeping clippings, or, as they used to be called, "scraps," in a careful, systematic fashion. The profit lies not only in the educational nature of the work, but in the actual money value of the collection after it has been kept up long enough in an intelligent way. Newspaper men appreciate this profit so well that in almost every great newspaper office in the country thousands of dollars are spent yearly in keeping such collections, and these in time become exceedingly valuable.

Of course no individual collector can make a collection that will rival one of these without devoting years of time and a great amount of money to the work. It is entirely possible, however, to make a collection in 10 or 12 years that will be worth some thousands of dollars.

It is a good rule not to attempt too much, at least in beginning, unless, indeed, the beginner is confident of persevering long enough and working hard enough to make a very large general collection, in which case he should mark out his divisions and subdivisions as soon as possible.

Probably the best way to start is to select some one subject in which the collector may have a personal interest. By making a collection on this subject he will gradually learn how to collect wisely and will soon grow enthusiastic, instead of tiring himself by attempting too much. Then one subject after another can be taken up in addition, or a general collection may be undertaken when habit has made the work easy.

Having chosen a subject, the next thing is to get clippings. Newspapers, trade journals, technical periodicals and even magazines may be obtained secondhand for the asking or at a nominal price by almost any one who will look after them regularly. If the collector can arrange with the exchange editor of some newspaper for the contents of his wastebasket, he can command a wealth of material.

Having the clippings, the collector must arrange a plan of keeping them, or he will find in a little while that they are not much better than waste paper. A great part of the value of a clipping lies in the ability to put your hand on it at a moment's notice, and this cannot be done unless the collection is kept systematically, and the simplest plan is the best, if it is such as to admit of divisions and subdivisions without confusion.

In the first place, each clipping must be carefully marked with the name and date of the paper from which it is cut. Long bladed shears, light ones, are the best tools for cutting, and a blue pencil is altogether the best for marking.

The reason for marking the clippings is that the importance of printed matter generally depends in a great measure on when and where it was published. If not marked immediately, the date will be forgotten, and it may be impossible after a little time to tell where the clipping was published. The mark, therefore, should be like this: "N. Y. Herald, Jan. 12, 1896."

Next get a lot of cheap envelopes. They must be substantial enough to stand some handling. With these and a big alphabetical index book the outfit is complete. Don't get a scrapbook. The labor of pasting clippings in a book is generally wasted, for any attempt to change the order of the clippings after they are pasted will involve a mutilation of the book or the clipping or both. Having the clippings and the envelopes, put the first in the second and mark each envelope with a number, 1, 2, 3, and so on.

All this is simple enough and is described in detail only because the details of the system are absolutely necessary. As has been said, a clipping is useless unless you can find it when you want it, and without a system you cannot find it, even if you remember it, without a long search.

The index therefore is the key to the collection and requires some study and constant care. Very likely a single clipping may have to be entered two or three times in the index. It must be entered at the time it is put into the envelope and the envelope is numbered because any putting off of a part of the work means doing it all over again. You can always find envelope 139, for example, but unless you look at your index first you will not know whether it is 78 or 159 that you want.

Supposing, then, that you have a clipping about Professor Jones' explorations in Java. It has been put into envelope 139. You must enter it in three places in the index, something like this:

E.
Explorations—"Jones In Java"............ 139
J.
Jones, Professor—"Exploration In Java"... 139
Java—"Jones' Exploration"............ 139

Now, it may easily happen that you might be looking up explorations, and envelope 176 might have Smith's explorations in Ceylon, and you might get both out at the same time. Then, both being out of the envelopes at once, you would not remember how to replace them without hunting back through the index. This would lead to confusion, and confusion means destroying the value of your collection, so this is one of the most important things to remember—always put the same number on the clipping (with the blue pencil) that is on the envelope you put it in.

This is an outline of the simplest and perhaps the best envelope system. When the collection gets very large a card index will be found better than an index book; but that is something that will be learned easily when the time comes. Other improvements will suggest themselves as the beginner goes along, but all that is attempted in this article is to show the general system.

Keeping scraps is like keeping accounts—it must be followed regularly and persistently to be of much use. Scattering items, picked up now and then at random, may be interesting, but are not likely to be valuable. If, however, a certain time be devoted to the work every day, and certain publications are watched regularly and carefully, the collector will be surprised to find how soon his clippings will become useful for reference, and how soon that usefulness will assume a real, pecuniary value.

The History of the Fork.

It is 900 years ago since the fork made its first appearance in Europe. Like man, it was born a featherless biped, and each has worked out his own evolution, the man into a being on two legs and two wheels, while the fork has developed extra prongs.

In 995 A. D., a son of the doge Pietro Osceolo had wedded in Venice the Byzantine princess Argila, who was able to allude casually in conversation to "my brother, the emperor of the east Roman empire." Her name means clay, but her nature favored the precious metals, for she produced at the wedding breakfast a silver fork and a gold spoon. Then the high Venetian families followed suit, though the church denounced it as an insult to Providence, and the social Tories of the day cried, "Ex Oriente tabes," (decay comes from the east.) Meanwhile the martyrs to fashion pricked their lips and hurt their teeth and used language with bated breath. The fork prospered, however. Three hundred and sixty years later it had reached Florence and spread over Italy. In 1379 it had traveled as far as France, and "in 1608," says the same authority, "the traveler Corgate brought it direct from Venice to England"—613 years in coming! Tantae molis erat to persuade the nations not to put their knives into their mouths.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Carrie Turner is again contemplating starring.

The Bostonians will begin their annual New York engagement Feb. 10 at the Broadway theater.

James O'Neill has taken to the wheel. He goes out for long spins every morning before breakfast and finds it agrees with his health.

Modjeska will not be seen until next year in her new version of Mosenthal's "Debora," already known as "Leah, the Forsaken."

Otis Skinner may be seen next season in a new play founded upon one of the most picturesque and exciting episodes in English history.

A probable feature of "The Lady Slavey" that may be regarded as a departure will be the rendition of the choruses by the principals solely.

Oscar Weil, composer of the "War Time Wedding," was the contemporary of Sir Arthur Sullivan and classmate of the noted British composer at Leipsic.

Feb. 10 is the date set for the first production of "The Adventures of Jack and the Beanstalk," a burlesque by Barnet, the man who wrote "1492."

Stuart Robson says, "I think Matthew Ponderbury, in 'Mrs. Ponderbury's Past,' the best part I have played since Bertie the Lamb in 'The Henrietta.'"

Maxine Elliott, the beauty of Daly's company, probably receives more offers from photographers, who want her to pose for them, than any six actresses put together.

H. Beerbohm Tree has scored the hit of his career as Svengali in "Trilby." In London there seems to be but one opinion about his impersonation. On all sides it is praised.

Fay Templeton has a valet to take care of the masculine raiment she wears in "Excelsior, Jr." Richard Harlow has a maid to take care of the dresses he wears in "1492."

CUBAN HISTORY IN BRIEF.

Spain colonized the island in 1511.

In 1534 and again in 1554 Havana was destroyed by the French.

Matanzas was the first city to fall into the hands of the insurgents.

Cruelty and injustice to the natives have always been the creed of the Spaniards.

The present revolution began Feb. 24, 1895, when the republic was proclaimed by Marti.

In 1848 President Polk offered Spain a million dollars for the island, which offer was refused.

The constitution of Cuba, modeled on that of the United States, was adopted Sept. 23, 1895.

The revolution of 1868 lasted ten years before Spain succeeded in compromising by promising reforms.

A triangular blue union, having a single star and five stripes, three of red and two of white, is the flag of the republic.

The first serious revolution took place in 1848, under the leadership of Narcisso Lopez, who in 1851 repeated his attempts to free the island from Spanish control.—Chicago Times-Herald.

OUR GIRLS.

The "new woman" has not been conspicuous in the war flurry. We are evidently far from the time when bloomers will wave, so to speak, in the thick of the battle.—Cleveland Leader.

Now Jersey's first woman lawyer has been granted permission to wear her hat in court. But the court didn't agree to keep her informed as to whether or not it was on straight.—Kansas City Journal.

Hetty Green has a Bible, but it mentions only the difficulties of a rich man in getting to heaven. There is not a word about a rich woman. Mrs. Stanton ought to readily perceive this virtue in the old fashioned book.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The question has been raised as to what the new woman would do in case of war. Without venturing into details it may be safely said that if she should engage the attention of the enemy as much as she now does that of her contemporaries he would not have much time left for fighting.—Philadelphia Ledger.
